

You can help guide Hamilton's food strategy

THE HAMILTON SPECTATOR

---

Do you live in Hamilton? Do you eat? If you answered yes to both questions, the city would like you to help guide its new food strategy. It has launched an online survey to guide a 10-year plan that it hopes will improve our food system.

"Food is connected to Hamilton's health, environment, economy and culture and the food strategy will create a co-ordinated approach to food issues," says Dr. Ninh Tran, associate medical officer of health who is leading the project.

The survey can be found at hamilton.ca/foodstrategy, and will be open until the end of June.